The State and Nevada State Law Enforcement Officers Association Announce Tentative Collective Bargaining Agreement

CARSON CITY, NV – Today, the State of Nevada and the Nevada State Law Enforcement Officers Association (NAPSO/CWA Local 9110) announce that they have reached a tentative collective bargaining agreement on all non-economic and economic articles.

The tentative agreement will now be provided to NSLEOA membership—made up of Category II Peace Officers—for ratification. Following ratification and pursuant to state law, the agreement must go to the State Board of Examiners for approval. If the Board approves the entire agreement, it can then be submitted to the State Legislature. For the economic provisions of the agreement, Governor Sisolak would submit budget amendments to the Legislature to effectuate those provisions.

Both the state and NSLEOA are very pleased with the outcome and appreciate the collegial and productive negotiations.

The terms of the agreement between the state and NSLEOA will become public once ratified and submitted to the State Board of Examiners.

The tentative agreement between the state and NSLEOA is the first collective bargaining agreement reached by the state and a labor organization following the passage of collective bargaining for classified state employees through Senate Bill 135 during the 2019 legislative session. At this time, seven of the 11 bargaining units established in state law are represented by labor organizations, and the state is actively engaged in negotiations with those organizations.
